DEAR FRIENDS,

FASPE and ethical leadership has never been as important as they are now.
We wish that we could become a little less relevant, that times could become a little less interesting. Alas...

We are so proud of how FASPE has pivoted during these challenging times—continuing to be a strong voice for ethical education and leadership, albeit in new ways. We have been actively educating young professionals, those in mid-career, and management and leadership of global organizations. We have curated and hosted a dozen webinars on tough conversations in these challenging times. Our Awards dinner, usually a highlight of the year for us—not just our primary fundraising event, but also a time to present our annual Ethical Leadership Awards—was not to be this year.

Still, we did not want to lose the meaning of that annual event. This year, however, we thought it more appropriate and important to honor more than just one or two public figures. Instead, we wanted to recognize many, the famous and not famous, who deserve to be honored for the work that they have done this year—in facing the terrible confluence of COVID 19, the economic fallout from the pandemic and, at long last, the recognition that was ignited by the murder of George Floyd that America must face up to the sin of slavery and the resulting long history of structural inequality and inbred institutional racism.
Thank you for participating in our “in lieu of gala” appeal. Our friends have been enormously generous in supporting us and our consequential work. If you haven't contributed yet, please consider doing so at faspe-ethics.org/SupportUs #InvestInOurEthicalFuture. Stay safe and strong.

With gratitude and admiration,

Thorsten Wagner

SPECIAL 2020 ETHICAL LEADERSHIP AWARD

DR. ANTHONY FAUCI

Anthony S. Fauci, M.D. is director of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases (NIAID) at the U.S. National Institutes of Health, where he oversees an extensive research portfolio focused on infectious and immune-mediated diseases. As the long-time chief of the NIAID Laboratory of Immunoregulation, Dr. Fauci has made many seminal contributions in basic and clinical research and is one of the world’s most-cited biomedical scientists. He was one of the principal architects of the President’s Emergency Plan for AIDS Relief (PEPFAR), a program that has saved millions of lives throughout the developing world. FASPE honors Dr. Fauci for his steadfast ethical leadership, service to six U.S. presidents, and relentless advocacy for the health of American and global citizens.
SPECIAL 2020 ETHICAL LEADERSHIP AWARD

BRYAN STEVENSON

Bryan Stevenson is an acclaimed public interest lawyer, founder/executive director of the Equal Justice Initiative, and Professor at NYU School of Law. In all this work, and as founder of the Legacy Museum and National Memorial for Peace and Justice, in Montgomery, Alabama, Stevenson has been a leading voice articulating the legacy of slavery, lynching, and racial segregation and their connections to mass incarceration and contemporary issues of racial bias. He was depicted in the legal drama Just Mercy based on his memoir Just Mercy: A Story of Justice and Redemption.
2020 ETHICAL LEADERSHIP AWARD FOR MEDICINE

DR. AMY ACTON

FASPE honors Dr. Amy Acton for her leading role in Ohio's proactive response to the COVID-19 pandemic, advising the Governor to close schools and restaurants, and to limit gatherings (though Ohio had few confirmed cases at the time). Dr. Acton advocated postponing the Ohio primary and ordered polling places closed due to a public health emergency. Thank you for your strength and courage amidst a global pandemic.
2020 ETHICAL LEADERSHIP AWARD FOR JOURNALISM

AMANDA BENNETT

FASPE honors Pulitzer-prize winning journalist, Amanda Bennett, director of Voice of America until mid-June 2020. As the Trump administration replaced Voice of America’s parent agency director, Bennett announced her resignation. She formerly edited The Philadelphia Inquirer and the Lexington Herald-Leader newspapers, was executive editor of Bloomberg News, spent 23 years at the Wall Street Journal, and is the author of six nonfiction books. Thank you for your principled ethical leadership.
2020 DISTINGUISHED FELLOW AWARD

NILA BALA

This year, FASPE is proud to honor Alumna Nila Bala (Law 2012) with the DISTINGUISHED FELLOW AWARD. Nila's career has been a model of commitment to improving the lives of some of the most vulnerable people in society. Nila has worked across ideological lines to achieve meaningful reform in the areas of juvenile justice and offender reentry. Her work demonstrates the unique contribution FASPE makes to develop the next generation of professionals. Thank you for your courage and ethical leadership.
FASPE Journalism
APPLICATIONS NOW OPEN

DEADLINE FOR APPLICATIONS: January 6, 2021
PROGRAM DATES: May 21 – June 4, 2021

FASPE Journalism is an intensive, two-week study program in professional ethics and ethical leadership.

FASPE Journalism begins by examining the actions and choices of German and international journalists in enabling and supporting Nazi policies. It then draws on this historical example to help Journalism Fellows grasp their responsibility as professionals and in their communities and to lead them to identify and confront the ethical issues currently facing practicing journalists and media outlets at large.

The fellowship takes place in Germany and Poland and is fully funded.

Congratulations to MAURA MARINO AND EDUCATION FORWARD DC for your efforts in co-founding the DC Education Equity Fund. Through your efforts more than $2.2 million has been raised since March. These funds have provided internet access to over 4,000 at-risk students and devices to another 3,000 of these deserving young people. More than this, you provided meals and basic necessities to families in need.

The pandemic is not over and neither are you. "Keep on, keepin’ on!"

Ed Kuffner, M.D. is Chief Medical Officer for Johnson & Johnson Consumer Health, where he leads a team of medical and safety professionals whose sole focus, independent of business or financial objectives, is on patient and consumer safety. Ed also chairs the Johnson & Johnson Bioethics Committee, which is responsible for advocating adherence to bioethical principles and championing ethical decision-making across Johnson & Johnson. A board-certified emergency medicine physician and medical toxicologist, Ed volunteered to help treat patients for four weeks at Coney Island Hospital in Brooklyn at the peak of the COVID-19 outbreak. Thank you, Ed, for your leadership in ensuring patients are as safe as possible, both in your role and on the front lines of this pandemic.

We salute our friends, a formidable team, DEBORAH SPITALNIK and JOHN WEINGART.

Deborah is the founding director of The Boggs Center on Developmental Disabilities at Rutgers Wood Johnson Medical School, where she is Professor of Pediatrics, Family Medicine and Community Health. Deborah has served as both member and chair of the President’s Committee for People with Intellectual Disabilities, appointed by Presidents Clinton and Obama.

John is the associate director of the Eagleton Institute of Politics at Rutgers University and has devoted his career to demonstrating that government service is an honorable, important, and fulfilling profession.

These ethical leaders exemplify FASPE’s values.

— DAVID AND JUDY MARWELL
We honor Dr. Amy Acton

for her ethical leadership and decisive response to COVID-19 as Director of the Ohio Department of Health and chief health adviser to Gov. Mike DeWine. We are inspired by her compassionate concern for Ohioans and her fortitude while confronting enormous challenges during this crisis. Congratulations to her on her new role as Director of Kind Columbus at the Columbus Foundation.

— Bill & Carol Goldman
We honor FACING HISTORY AND Ourselves

for their curriculum and programs, teaching young teenage students about morality, and the ills of bigotry and racism, leading them to become more compassionate citizens. The reinvigoration of educators through the use of Facing History’s curriculum and pedagogy is an extraordinary aspect particularly in this time. Thank you for helping us face our history and informing our attitudes and behaviors—allowing us to choose a world of equity and justice.

— RONALD G. CASTY
KIRKLAND & ELLIS

At Kirkland, we believe we have a responsibility to better the communities where we live and work — and we invest substantial energy, talent and resources in meaningful initiatives that reflect our values and mission. Our lawyers contribute over 100,000 hours annually to pro bono legal work in critical areas including civil rights, disability rights, discrimination cases, immigration, education, veterans’ benefits and more. We advocate for equality and justice, with the belief that by drawing on our diverse backgrounds, strengths and experiences, we can help foster a more equitable and inclusive world.
In gratitude and recognition to all those who risk their health and safety in support of BLM and their call for racial equity.

CONGRATULATIONS TO

DE BRAUW BLACKSTONE WESTBROEK

PRO BONO PROGRAM OF THE YEAR

De Brauw’s pro bono work covers human rights, sustainability, the environment, and cultural and legal development. Some of their key pro bono matters include working with the NGO The Ocean Cleanup, the filing of a complaint against Greece to the European Commission concerning asylum applicants and representing the mothers of the Srebrenica massacre victims in a case against the Dutch government.
HONORING

BUTTERFIELD MARKET
JOELLE & EVAN OBSATZ

Located on the UES, Butterfield Market has been a family-run business for three generations. Butterfield was able to pivot to prepare, deliver, and serve more than 35,000 meals to doctors and first responders at Lenox Hill Hospital and ultimately, to many of the New York City’s hospitals.

Joelle and Evan Obsatz, together with their father Alan, kept the “family” of Butterfield employed throughout this pandemic, and prepared and delivered food and meals to those on the front-lines.

We honor Butterfield Market as heroes of Ethical Leadership.

HONORING
ROZ MEYER AND ANNE CALABRESI

New Haven has Yale University, two extraordinary museums, a great hospital, two excellent theaters and the best pizza in America. We also are fortunate to have two women of vision, dedication and perseverance, Anne Calabresi and Roslyn Milstein Meyer, whose collaboration resulted in making significant positive social change in New Haven.

Leadership, Education and Athletics in Partnership, Inc. (LEAP) was founded in 1992 by educators, students, and community activists to address the historic disinvestment in young people of color in New Haven. LEAP believes that young people have the intellect, enthusiasm, courage, and leadership potential to make real change. LEAP creates the space and marshals the resources so that young leaders can mentor, educate and care for the children of New Haven.

HONORING ANDY EDER

Andy Eder is an inspiration to so many in our community. He is deeply humane, seeing issues through the lens of how they affect people and building the kinds of personal relationships with friends and collaborators that make working with others a hallmark of his community engagement. He is always practical, bringing the perspective of a down-to-earth problem solver to every issue. His thoughtfulness about the workings of institutions, individuals and society as a whole is always illuminating. Most importantly, his passion for his causes make him a true philanthropic leader, both in his home community and for FASPE.

To all the local journalists who continue to tell the truth every day to help their communities navigate this difficult and confusing year. Although there are fewer local journalists today than there once were—too few—there are still too many to list in this space. They don’t always get national acclaim or even recognition. But they wake up each morning and do their jobs, whether from home or out in the field, to keep their readers informed and hold people in power accountable. And we should all be grateful for the stories they report that might otherwise go untold.

Ethics Leadership Training

FASPE provides ethical leadership training for practicing professionals at all levels of experience inside of operating organizations. The FASPE approach to ethics training for professionals differs from the traditional university classroom or corporate training efforts; it is not about issues of compliance or traditional “corporate social responsibility” and it is not limited to the standard question of whether a corporation exists solely to benefit its shareholders. Instead, the FASPE Ethics Leadership Program offers a holistic, non-rules-based construct to ethical behavior that addresses both the institutions and the individuals.
