

Keila (Ortiz) Garcia studied at Lehman college and majored in web design before deciding to change course after realizing her passion for operations. She then enrolled at Baruch College where she majored in Human Resources with a minor in Psychology. Since then, Keila has worked in different areas of operations ranging from banking to office management, to administrative and human resources support. She enjoys assisting in areas where organization and structure are a priority, in hopes to help her team to reach their goals. Keila also values being a part of change that is inspired by a shared interest in humanity.

Keila lives in New York with her husband and her two adorable cats. She also enjoys gaming and has a huge love for horror movies, shows and literature.