

Mia Garcia is the Senior Director of Operations at FASPE, where she leads project management, enhances office productivity, and improves organizational efficiency. With over a decade of experience in the nonprofit sector, she has consistently strengthened structures and optimized workflows to enhance efficiency and collaboration across teams.

Mia began her career as an administrative assistant, gaining first hand insight into operational needs and the value of effective systems. She quickly advanced to management roles, where she leveraged her strategic planning and leadership skills to enhance organizational effectiveness. Her expertise in streamlining complex processes and leading cross-functional teams led to her current role as Director of Operations.

Mia holds a degree in psychology from Baruch College. She lives in Westchester with her husband.